The boxplot show the composition of file types most dominating in the docker image.
The gray line indicate the average percentage of file size for the respective file types

File composition (%)

File Types